BIO

Chicago native Kiara Lanier is a singer, songwriter, performance artist, and actress. Her musical style is a sensual yet ethereal blend of R&B and Afrobeat. You may have heard her music in many of your favorite new tv shows as she sync licenses her songs with several networks and in commercials with Nike.

Since 2016, Kiara began questioning how music can inspire wellness. Her answer is her latest Production Company- Hits For Life, a music and media production company with a film and music recording studio based in Los Angeles. The company uses their service profits to offer holistic health resources and education to communities around the world.
